- Any entity containing coordinated microzymas is alive
- Such an entity dies when the constituent microzymas absolutely cease to coordinate.

If the Shroud of Turin is real, I postulate and propose that the imagery thereof is the result of the energy released via the instantaneous re-coordination of myriads of microzymas/cellular dust that had been de-coordinated for three days. In a sense what took place was a reverse of spontaneous human combustion. [1-4].
